Missouri Employers Mutual Celebrates 10 Years Injury-Free

Columbia, MO— Missouri Employers Mutual, Missouri's No. 1 provider of workers compensation insurance, is living its vision of safe, health and injury-free workplaces. The safety company is celebrating 10 years injury-free. How have the MEM Safety Fanatics kept their workplace safe for ten years and counting?

"It takes dedication and creativity to shape the safety culture that has kept our workplace safe for the past decade," said Jim Owen, president and chief executive officer. "We start by applying many of the same safety policies we encourage for our policyholders."

In 2016, 86 percent of MEM policyholders were injury-free, a steady increase over previous years. MEM's own 300+ employees across 4 offices were also injury-free. On July 11, MEM celebrated a full decade without a single lost-time injury in the workplace.

Central to MEM's safety culture is its Safety Fanatics program, which outlines a corporate target for all employees to understand top safety risks in the workplace. The program also encourages employees to share safety messages with the larger community, and provides opportunities for peer-to-peer recognition when someone is caught "in the act" of ensuring a safe workplace.

MEM's free workplace safety resources are available to everyone at www.worksafecenter.com.
